

CONSTANTINE ABDICATES AS KING OF GREECE; HIS SON IS CHOSEN REGENT

Allied Troops On Way To Athens To Assume Control Is Reported

RUMANIANS ARE IN SERVIA

New Allies Continue Advance Through Transylvania Alps Into Plain of Hungary

LONDON, Sept. 1.—King Constantine of Greece has abdicated and the general mobilization of the Greek army has been ordered, says a Reuter despatch from Saloniki today. Crown Prince George has been appointed regent and former Premier Venizelos is giving his support to the ministry, the despatch adds.

Constantine ascended the throne upon the assassination of his father, King George I, in Saloniki, on March 18, 1913.

Following the report of Constantine's flight from Athens on Wednesday night, it was reported that allied troops were on their way to the Greek capital and this gave rise to a belief in some quarters that the protecting powers (England, France and Russia) would assume control of the Greek government.

The report was telegraphed from Saloniki by the Reuter correspondent to that city.

Although the report of the Hellenic king's flight was denied at the Greek legation, the fact that the allied military mission showed the strength to come through gave it a strong ring of authenticity.

The Greek government has been in troubled waters ever since the war began. Strong pressure was brought to bear upon Greece to compel the government to live up to its treaty of alliance with Servia and a strong pro-ally party under leadership of former Premier Venizelos grew up. However, Constantine held out for neutrality.

The abdication of Constantine would probably result in the intervention of Greece in the war on the side of the allies. Constantine was born in 1868. His wife, Queen Sophie, is a sister of Emperor William of Germany.

The Greek army is again being mobilized.

The text of the Saloniki dispatch follows:

"Sensational news has just been received here from Athens, but pending its official confirmation, must be mentioned with reserve. It is stated that King Constantine has abdicated and that the crown prince has been appointed regent. Premier Zaimis remains at the head of the cabinet and is receiving the support of Eleutherios Venizelos. General mobilization of the Greek army has once more been ordered."

RUMANIA TO ENTER SERVIA.
Advance in Transylvanian Alps Continues Steadily.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—Bulgaria has declared war against Rumania.

This information was contained in a Reuter despatch received from Saloniki today. The despatch stated that official announcement of Bulgaria's war declaration has been made at Saloniki.

All four of the German allies have now declared war on Rumania.

BUCHAREST, Sept. 1.—With Rumanian and Russian troops attacking both the Austro-Hungarians and Bulgarians it was reported today that the Rumanian general staff is planning to throw an army across the Danube to attack the Teutonic forces in northern Servia.

The steady advance of the Rumanian armies continues in the Transylvanian Alps. All of Tarlung valley has been occupied in the district around Kronstadt (Brasso).

The Rumanian losses have been very light. Their sudden stroke against the Austro-Hungarians was made with such vigor that they met little resistance.

The Russian forces that crossed eastern Rumania have now arrived on the Bulgarian frontier where violent fighting is developing along the Danube.

There is also severe fighting with the Rumanians participating in the extreme southern ranges of the Carpathians where Rumanian troops joined the Russians southwest of Kimpolung. Further north a great battle is raging in the Carpathians around Kukul Pass, near Zable but only Russians are engaged against the Austro-German troops in that sector.

Austrian monitors have shown another burst of activity on the Danube by bombarding Tura-Serwin.

AUTO BANDITS GET $5,000 IN JEWELS

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 1.—Auto bandits got $5,000 in diamonds from a woman companion of B. Dupert of the Frontenac Cafe, when the latter's car was held up on the seven mile road early today. Dupert was repairing a tire when two men stopped, presented guns and two of the gang relieved the woman of the jewels. The bandits escaped.

Austrian monitors have shown another burst of activity on the Danube by bombarding Tura-Serwin.

Sheriff Eley and Family

The group comprises Sheriff Sherman Eley, Mrs. Eley, their son Albert, and little Doris, who died a victim of the mob's fury.

EXPRESSION OF FRIGHT ON LIPS, ELEY GIRL, 3, DIES AT HOSPITAL; DANGER OF NEW OUTBREAK SMALL

"Mamma, don't let them get me!" With this feeble cry on her lips, Doris Mildred Eley, three-year-old daughter of Sheriff Sherman Eley, died at the city hospital at 7 o'clock last night. Nervous shock and a cold caught when members of the mob invaded the tiny home Wednesday evening, throwing the covers from the child and threatening to toss her in the air, in addition to a weakened condition due to a recent operation for tonsilitis, combined to bring about her death.

The child was a favorite in the court house. Until her frail health necessitated removal to the hospital, she daily made the rounds of the various offices, arm in arm with her big brother, Albert, aged nine. No official was ever too engrossed in his work to notice her, and in every room in the building Doris was petted and liked.

Little Miss Eley was born August 9, 1913, in Amherst township, on the Kiley farm eight miles west of Lima and a quarter of a mile from the Spencerville road. Her health has never been the best, as she has not been robust. Despite her nervousness she always attracted her elders by her cheerful disposition, as well as a lively interest in everything about her. Her childish curiosity and her bright mind, with a perpetual smile and a nature quite at variance from the gloomy walls of the prison behind her home, won her a popular position with the public servants in the court house, who have sent a large basket of roses to the bereaved family.

Doris is survived by her parents and two brothers, one an infant of but a few months. The body was sent to the home of her maternal grandfather, Oren Kephart, near Spencerville, last night. The funeral services will be held at the Kephart home.

Members of the colored race were warned to stay at home, and many of them got out of the city on the first warning of impending trouble.

Sheriff Eley is in much worse physical condition than it generally realized. In addition to scores of bruises and contused spots on his ribs and backs, he received a number of kicks in the abdomen which may yet prove serious.

Mrs. Eley, completely exhausted by the long vigil at the side of her daughter, is in a serious condition at the home of her father, Oren Kephart, near Spencerville, and her sister, Miss Cecil Kephart, is able to walk only with the greatest difficulty as a result of blows administered by members of the mob. Both of the women, as well as Sheriff Eley, are completely unbroken by the grief due to the child's death, which has been a heavy blow to the entire family.

Indignation at the action of the mob has risen to a high pitch. Men in all stations of life are free with expressions of admiration for the courage of the sheriff, as well as sympathy for the Eley family. No matter how great the crime committed by Daniels, they assert, Eley should not have been molested for protecting his quarry as required by law.

Immediately following the shooting police were notified of the affair, but a search of the yards and box cars in that part of the city failed to reveal the culprit. Smith was taken to his home and physician was called to dress the wound in the shoulder. Although the physician was unable to find the bullet imbedded in his body, empty shells of 32 caliber round where the bullet had passed through his shoulder.

Press comment throughout the state and the entire nation is unanimous in condemning the outbreak as an outrage against law and order.

Even as far away as New York, the name of the sheriff was placed on the first page.

Cleveland papers have made it the feature for the past two days, jumping to red headlines of no small size. Throughout Ohio, especially, has the "Lima riot" been spread in stories not totally free from exaggerations.

Prosecution of the ringleaders, whose names were taken down during the threatening period of Wednesday night, is certain to result from the session of the grand jury Tuesday.

Citizens who were spectators of the violent actions are voluntarily turning in their data to the prosecuting attorney Ortha O. Barr, and it is expected that several of the accused men now under surveillance will be induced to turn state's evidence in order to secure immunity.

Vague rumors of impending martial law, in addition to a report that the saloons would be closed at noon Saturday, were numerous this morning. No truth attaches to either, although it is certain that in case any trouble breaks out tonight there will be some action taken regarding the closing orders.

RUSSIAN PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN IN RUMANIA.

How the Russians have planned an extensive campaign in Rumania is shown in the accompanying map. The lines with arrow heads indicate military routes across Rumania, which will be taken by Rumanian and Russian forces in attacking Austria, Bulgaria, and Turkey. The correlation between these routes and the double track strategic railway from Volotschik to Odessa, is easily seen. With this railway Russia should find little trouble in keeping her armies in Rumania and the Rumanians well supplied.

8-HOUR LAW WILL REACH VOTE TODAY IN THE LOWER HOUSE

Senate Will Then Begin Session to Continue Until Final Action

REPUBLICANS THREATEN

Brotherhood Chiefs Insist That Definite Measure All That Will Avert Strike

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Congress today cleared the way for action on the proposed eight-hour law for railroad employees actively engaged in the transportation department—the only plan which will result in the brotherhoods calling off the threatened strike.

The house interstate commerce committee favorably reported the measure as introduced by Judge Adamson, its chairman, yesterday. At the same time the rules committee provided for a vote at 4:30 this afternoon.

The situation in the senate still was serious. The republicans held a secret conference to determine what action they would take. Meanwhile the upper house recessed from 10 until 1 o'clock to await that decision. Its interstate commerce committee, following a visit from President Wilson, devoted attention to eliminating all consideration of today's program excepting the eight-hour measure and the proposal for a commission to investigate operation of such a law.

The democratic senators admitted that the republicans had the power, if they so desired, to tie up the entire program. But they believed that they would agree to pass the 8-hour bill by itself and wait until next week to take up the remainder of the suggested presidential program.

Meanwhile the brotherhood chiefs and the railway executives waited the outcome.

After an all morning debate, the senate interstate commerce committee favorably reported to the senate, when it reconvened this afternoon, the president's eight-hour railway employees bill, together with the proposal for the appointment of a commission to investigate the plan and scope of such a plan.

The republican senators will endeavor to agree to a program which will permit an early vote on the eight-hour bill.

President Wilson went to the capital at 9:15 to confer with the members of the senate interstate commerce committee and the senate and house leaders to expedite the passage of the eight-hour law for railroads which will result in the brotherhood leaders calling off the proposed strike.

The president urged the senate and house leaders to get together and get the bill through both houses today if possible. He was understood to be confident that the proposed measure will be a law by tomorrow night.

That congress must definitely act on the eight-hour bill to have the railroad strike called off is the position of the brotherhood chiefs here. They served notice on the president and the congressional leaders today that they would not accept a promise of action. If the eight-hour bill has not been enacted into law by Monday morning the strike will take place on schedule, the brotherhood chiefs say. The president's efforts to get a contingent compromise, in case the senate should halt the proposed law, have completely failed, administration officials say. It is understood that a statement making the union position clear was left with the president by A. B. Garretson, of the conductors, when he visited the White House today.

SEARCHING FOR MAN WHO SLEW BRIDE

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—A police dragnet was thrown out today all over the middle west for Maurice Pettit, successful young business man who brutally murdered his 13-year-old bride of a month in their apartment last night. The girl's mother came in the front door and found her daughter just as Pettit was slipping from a back door. The two were married just a month ago and society made much of their wedding. Mrs. Pettit, as Katherine Keyser, was a favorite in the younger set. It is believed Pettit is insane.

That congress must definitely act on the eight-hour bill to have the railroad strike called off is the position of the brotherhood chiefs here. They served notice on the president and the congressional leaders today that they would not accept a promise of action. If the eight-hour bill has not been enacted into law by Monday morning the strike will take place on schedule, the brotherhood chiefs say. The president's efforts to get a contingent compromise, in case the senate should halt the proposed law, have completely failed, administration officials say. It is understood that a statement making the union position clear was left with the president by A. B. Garretson, of the conductors, when he visited the White House today.

COXEY FILES PETITION

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 1.—"General" Jacob S. Coxey, Mansfield, filed petitions today bearing 13,256 names for a place on the ballot November 7 for United States senator. Petitions also will be filed in several other counties, said Coxey, who is running as an independent.

"I expect to be elected," said Coxey.

CRISIS IN CONGRESS.

Eight Hour Bill to Pass House Today Expected.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Abandonment of the general railway strike today rested with congress. Both houses began consideration of the eight-hour bill, passage of which the brotherhood officials say will result in their declaring void the strike order now in the hands of every union member. There was no doubt that the measure would pass the house late this afternoon and the democratic members declared that they intended keeping the measure before the senate and that body in continuous session until action was secured. Republicans and democratic leaders said they expected the bill would be a law not later than Saturday night and possibly by tomorrow.

President Wilson continued his efforts to hold the democratic majority of the senate and house in line for this legislation. Through his lieutenants he has let it be known that he plans to have his entire legislative program dealing with the situation considered, although it now is certain that the proposal to name a genuine investigation board, to investigate all matters that might lead to a strike on interstate public utility corporations with a penalty included which would prevent strikes or lockouts during the inquiry interval, is doomed to fail. Not alone the brotherhoods, but organized labor in general will fight this plan and officials say that in the face of this opposition it cannot go through.

The brotherhood officials were standing firm today in their refusal to take action to call off the strike until the eight-hour bill was through both branches of congress. They insisted that they had no power to act at this time and simply must adopt waiting tactics. The railway representatives here declared that in their opinion, passage of the measure would postpone but will not prevent the strike. They say that the measure as drafted is purely unconstitutional, holding that it fixes wages by its provision that present wages shall be paid under the shorter workday with pro rata compensation for overtime.

The supreme court, the railroads say, has in three decisions held that congress has no power to fix wages. However it is unlikely that the railroads will urge their objection at this time, preferring to wait until after congress completes its program to see what the outcome will be.

In any event it is pointed out that the date to make effective the proposed change will be either December or January first next and by that time congress will be back on the job, the campaign will be over and it will have time to work out a general plan to prevent strikes or lockouts on public utilities.

It is admitted by both democratic and republican congressional leaders that the experiences of the last few days have brought home directly to the American people the dangers which a general railroad strike present and that some plan will have to be evolved which will make a renewal of the present crisis impossible. It is expected that eventually legislation will be drafted which will prevent such a situation and it is likely that between now and the opening of the new session of congress in December the interstate commerce commission will endeavor to submit a plan to congress.

The president will go to Shadow Lawn at 3 o'clock this afternoon to be formally notified of his nomination. As soon as the eight-hour bill has been passed by both houses of congress a special messenger will hurry it to the summer White House and it will immediately be signed.

SHIP PURCHASE OF WILSON IS LAUDED BY SEC. DANIELS

BATHE, Me., Sept. 1.—Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels devoted his speech here last night to a defense of the administration ship purchase act.

He said, in part:

"In view of the enormous losses inflicted upon the world's merchant shipping by the war, the government ship purchase bill will be a blessing not only to this country, but to the world at large.

"The world at large is suffering, and will continue to suffer for some years even after this war ends because of the desolation which has been wrought upon the seas.

"The total number of ships destroyed since the beginning of the war is 1,487, with a gross tonnage of 2,812,624. The allies have lost 2,178,609 tons, the neutral nations, 412,238 tons, and the central powers 222,337 tons, the latter figure representing shipping that was unable to make harbor at the beginning of the war.

"At the beginning of the beginning of the European conflict the principle maritime nations of the world had an ocean merchant tonnage of 48,000,000.

"About 6,000,000 tons of this figure beginning to the Teutonic powers, and chiefly to Germany, have been tied up. With 3,000,000 additional tons sunk, almost 20 per cent of the total has been put out of commission.

"The United States already leads all countries in making up this appalling shortage and the passage of the ship purchase bill will give it a still greater lead. This country had less than 1,000,000 tons in foreign trade in 1912, while now it has more than 2,000,000 tons.

"Some of this increase represents transfer of ships to American registry under the act of 1913; but 1,225,000 tons of steel merchant ships are now being constructed in American ship yards, as against 271,000 tons in 1912.

"When war seriously interfered with our customary exports to Europe, the foreign commerce bureau, a Wilson addition to the department of commerce, turned its energy towards opening new doors for trade with our South American neighbors, with the result that Pan-American sales have reached $385,000,000 this being the figure attained from exports to South and Central America and the West Indies during the fiscal year just closed. This is, as already noted, an increase of $154,000,000 or 62 per cent, in a single year.

"With this splendid trade now being established with Central and South American countries and with promise of its enlargement through the shipping bill, the future of the ocean carrying trade of the United States can hardly be conceived, but it is the prediction of Director-General John Barrett of the Pan-American Union that within five years the commerce of the Pan-American countries will approximate $5,000,000,000, which is greater than our commerce with Europe at the present time."

Secretary Daniels predicted a great future for this old ship-building city as a result of the passage of the ship purchase bill.

"Not long ago one of the brightest young naval officers, being asked what assignment he desired, replied, 'I wish to command a destroy. if I can be assigned to one that was built in Bathe,' and he was no exception to the rule that destroyers built here have no superior in all the world," he said.

"No people are more interested in, or will receive more benefit from, the Wilson naval and merchant marine policies than those in the state of Maine. I do not refer only to the fact that these policies will greatly increase the number of men employed in the navy yard at Kittery, and restore its old time prominent place as a ship-building center to Bathe. These are matters of prime importance, as will be the increase in ship-building and marine development in every town and city with water transportation in the state. There is no doubt that Wilson's policy, which has already restored the merchant marine life, will cause such a revival in ship-building in Maine as its citizens have not dreamed of since republican neglect caused ship-building here to lapse into what Mr. Cleveland would have called innocuous desuetude."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Following is the text of the revised eight-hour bill that is to be introduced in the house and senate today for the purpose of preventing a railway strike:

A bill to establish an eight-hour day for employees of carriers engaged in interstate and foreign commerce and for other purposes.

Be it enacted, etc., that:

Section 1. Beginning December 1, 1916, eight hours shall be deemed a day's work, and the measure or standard of a day's work for the purpose of reckoning the compensation for services of all employees who are now or may hereafter be employed by a common carrier or by a railroad which is subject to the provisions of the act of February 1, 1887, entitled "An act to regulate commerce," as amended, and who are now or may hereafter be actually engaged in any capacity in the operation of trains used for the transportation of persons or property on railroads, from any state or territory of the United States or the District of Columbia, to any other state or territory of the United States or the District of Columbia, or from one place in a territory to another place in the same territory or from any place in the United States to any other place in the United States.

Section 2. That the President shall appoint a commission of three, which shall observe the operation and effect of the institution of the eight-hour standard work day as above defined and the facts and conditions affecting the relations between such common carrier and employees during a period of not less than six months nor more than nine months, in the discretion of the commission, and within 90 days thereafter said commission will report its findings to the president and congress; that each member of the commission created under the provisions of this act shall receive such compensation as may be fixed by the president. The sum of $25,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be, and hereby is, appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated for the necessary and proper expenses incurred in connection with the work of such commission, including salaries per diem, traveling expenses of members and employees and rent, furniture, office fixtures and supplies, books, salaries and other necessary expenses, the same to be approved by the chairman of said commission and audited by the proper accounting officer of the treasury.

A. was God-send to every soldier in camp. It is the only restraining influence in camp, outside of the work of the chaplains, which is limited to one service a week in each regiment. This work at Camp Willis by the state Y. M. C. A. added to the heavy burdens that the state committee already was carrying.

Now comes a new problem which was the occasion of a special meeting in Columbus Tuesday of the secretaries and one member of the board of directors called from every association in the state. The problem is occasioned by the troops being sent to the border and the carrying on of the Y. M. C. A. work among them at their new camp on the deserts somewhere along the Rio Grande. If the work was needed at Camp Willis it is ten times more necessary to do it on the border, for the moral conditions and standards are almost non-existent. The state committee is asking the local associations over the state, therefore, to finance the work for at least six months. The board of directors are heartily in sympathy with the project and authorized the secretary to organize a canvas in the city for such finances as could be secured. A committee appointed at the meeting apportioned the amount to be raised in every locality thought that Lima ought to raise about $800. Lima was

FOR THE INFORMATION OF THE PUBLIC:

The Railroads' statement of their position on the threatened strike, as presented to the President of the United States

A strike on all the railroads of the country has been called by the Train Brotherhoods for 7 o'clock Monday morning, September 4.

This strike was ordered from Washington while the President of the United States was making every effort to avert the disaster.

The Final Railroad Proposal

The final proposal made by the railroads for a peaceful settlement of the controversy, but which was rejected by the brotherhoods, was as follows:

(a) The railroads will, effective September 1, 1916, keep the time of all men represented in this movement, upon an 8 hour basis and by separate account, monthly, with each man, maintain a record of the difference between the money actually earned by him on the present basis and the amount that would have been earned upon an 8 hour basis—overtime on each basis to be computed pro rata.

The amounts so shown will be subject to the decision of the Commission, provided for in Paragraph (c) of this memorandum and payable in money, as may be directed by said Commission in its findings and decision.

(b) The Interstate Commerce Commission to supervise the keeping of these accounts and report the increased cost of the 8 hour basis, after such period of actual experience as their judgment approves or the President may fix, not, however, less than three months.

(c) In view of the far-reaching consequences of the declaration made by the President, accepting the 8 hour day, not only upon the railroads and the classes of labor involved directly in this controversy, but to the public and upon all industry, it seems plain that before the existing conditions are changed, the whole subject in so far as it affects the railroads and their employees, should be investigated and determined by a Commission to be appointed by the President, of such standing as to compel attention and respect to its findings. The judgment of such a Commission would be a helpful basis for adjustments with labor and such legislation as intelligent public opinion, so informed, might demand.

Statement of Executives to the President

In submitting this proposal to the President, the fifty railroad executives called to Washington and representing all the great arteries of traffic, made this statement to him of their convictions:

The demands in this controversy have not been presented, in our judgment, for the purpose of fixing a definite daily period of labor, nor a reduction in the existing hours of labor or change in methods of operation, but for the real purpose of accomplishing an increase in wages of approximately One Hundred Million Dollars per annum, or 35 per cent. for the men in railroad freight train and yard service represented by the labor organizations in this matter.

After careful examination of the facts and patient and continuous consultation with the Conference Committee of Managers, and among ourselves, we have reached a clear understanding of the magnitude of the questions, and of the serious consequences to the railroads and to the public, involved in the decision of them.

Trustees for the Public

As trustees for the public served by our lines and for the great mass of the less powerful employees (not less than 80 per cent. of the whole number) interested in the railroad wage fund—as trustees also for the millions of people that have invested their savings and capital in the bonds and stock of these properties, and who through the saving banks, trust companies and insurance companies, are vitally interested to the extent of millions of dollars, in the integrity and solvency of the railroads of the country, we cannot in conscience surrender without a hearing, the principle involved, nor undertake to transfer the enormous cost that will result to the transportation of the commerce of the country.

The eight-hour day without punitive overtime involves an annual increase, approximately, in the aggregate of Sixty Millions of Dollars, and an increase of more than 80 per cent. in the pay of the men, already the most highly paid in the transportation service.

The ultimate cost to the railroads of an admission in this manner of the principle under contention cannot now be estimated; the effect upon the efficiency of the transportation of the country now already under severe test under the tide of business now moving, and at a time when more, instead of less, effort is required for the public welfare, would be harmful beyond calculation.

The widespread effect upon the industries of the country as a whole is beyond measure or appraisement at this time, and we agree with the insistent and widespread public concern over the gravity of the situation and the consequences of a surrender by the railroads in this emergency.

In like manner we are deeply impressed with the sense of our responsibility to maintain and keep open the arteries of transportation, which carry the life blood of the commerce of the country, and of the consequences that will flow from even temporary interruption of service over the railroads, but the issues presented have been raised above and beyond the social and monetary questions involved, and the responsibility for the consequences that may arise will rest upon those that provoke it.

Public Investigation Urged

The questions involved are in our respectful judgment, eminently suitable for the calm investigation and decision by the public through the agency of fair arbitration, and cannot be disposed of, to the public satisfaction, in any other manner.

The decision of a Commission or Board of Arbitration, having the public confidence, will be accepted by the public, and the social and financial rearrangements made necessary thereby will be undertaken by the public, but in no less deliberate nor orderly manner.

The railroads of the country cannot under present conditions assume this enormous increase in their expenses. If imposed upon them, it would involve many in early financial embarrassment and bankruptcy and imperil the power of all to maintain their credit and the integrity of their securities.

The immediate increase in cost, followed by other increased that would be inevitable, would substantially appropriate the present purchasing power of the railroads and disable them from expanding and improving their facilities and equipment, to keep abreast of the demands of the country for efficient transportation service.

In good faith we have worked continuously and earnestly in a sincere effort to solve the problem in justice to all the parties at interest. These efforts were still in progress when the issuance of the strike order showed them to be unavailing.

Problem Threatens Democracy Itself

The strike, if it comes, will be forced upon the country by the best paid class of laborers in the world, at a time when the country has the greatest need for transportation efficiency.

The problem presented is not that alone of the railroad or business world, but involving democracy itself, and sharply presents the question whether any group of citizens should be allowed to possess the power to imperil the life of the country by conspiring to block the arteries of commerce.

THE VICTIMS

There are plenty of comments to the effect that the riot of Wednesday was fortunately futile, in that no crime was committed to besmirch the name of the city whom we all hope to see advertised in no manner but the best and most advantageous. But there were victims who suffered from the insane brutality of the thugs who invaded the Eley household.

Doris Eley was a happy child, just at the age when life is sunny and when a child can bring the most sunshine into the lives of others. Bright and cheery, she was one factor in bringing happiness into the residence which back up against a gloomy jail. The life of a sheriff's family is none too pleasant, with impending jail deliveries, overpowering of guards, and other dangers threatening at all hours of the day and night. The wife of the official can never forget that within a few yards of the nursery are desperate criminals who may at any time escape and terrorize the community. Life in the front part of a jail-residence is not always as pleasant as those who reside in palatial mansions on boulevards may imagine.

Doris Eley was a sick child. Illness throughout the summer had made her weak and frail. Pneumonia was followed by an operation on the throat, and when the mob of yelling, cursing hoodlums, uttering expressions which no man with a spark of gentlemanly instinct would make in the presence of a woman, broke into the home and ransacked the upper chambers, Doris was in no condition to withstand the shock.

The burly invader broke into the room where Doris was recovering. He snatched the bedclothes from her, leaving her frightened and screaming for her mother. Another struck the young aunt a savage blow as he entered.

But for the mob of Wednesday night, Doris Eley would in all probability be alive today, well on the way to recovery. A sudden cold and the effect of the riot on her delicate nerves, and Sherman E. Eley has suffered a loss which no compensation

Living Up to Ideals

By Beatrice Fairfax

"It is so easy to drift back, to sink; So hard to live abreast of what you think."

HAVING COURAGE and having the courage of our own convictions seem unfortunately far apart in this world. They lie at the poles of physical and moral bravery.

Being a moral coward is a far more tragic thing than being a physical one. Shrinking from physical pain may not be a sign of weakness at all in one who has the moral courage to hold himself firmly to his own standards of enduring things bravely.

Even a weakling may have his magnificent moment of meeting visible danger bravely. It isn't as hard to face death or even to die as it is to live honestly and consistently. A good many people start out with few honest convictions and discover that their honesty and sincerity aren't paying as well as the trickery and charlatanism of other folks. For a while they fight for their ideals—for a time they make an honest effort to live their lives as they think right and fitting. But over and over in their minds goes the refrain, "It doesn't pay—it isn't paying! What's the use?"

No one ever got away from his own inner conviction of right and wrong. Whoever believes a thing strongly and fails it weakly, has to suffer the reproaches of his own thoughts. There are always quiet hours when the ghost of an honest past rises to reproach a dishonest present.

And yet it is pathetically easy to drift into compromise with ideals or even to sink to a level where they are no longer visible. And it is pathetically hard actually to live up to convictions of right.

But the only way for any human being to be at peace with himself is to do the right as he sees it.

If he fails to do this he may win money and place, but he cannot win a moment of peace of mind.

Peace of mind is about the most important thing in the world for any one who wants to be happy and contented.

The effort it takes to live up to ideals is well worth making. It means a struggle at first, that is quite true. But it means clear vision, strength and the ultimate success that has to come to any one who looks at things honestly and strives toward them unceasingly.

No one ever yet compromised with his own ideals and achieved a success that wasn't dust and ashes in his own mouth. No one need flatter himself that he is going to be the exception to this rule. A man who has ideals, a perception of the honest thing to do and an inherent desire to express his best self will achieve only misery if he fails them. "For what shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

PUBLIC FORUM

A. G. O. P. PROTEST

The Cleveland leader is a Republican paper, whatever that may be. It is, moreover, exceptionally partisan. To an owner like Dan R. Hanna no Democrat like Sherman Eley could be worthy of public office. Yet in the Leader for this morning we find the following tribute to the bravery of the sheriff combined with a just rebuke to Lima's rioters:

THE LIMA OUTRAGE.

Ohio is disgraced by the mob outbreak in Lima, county seat and chief town of Allen county. Wednesday night. The whole state is dismasted by that orgy of lawlessness. But Ohio is saved, in some measure, from the obloquy and reproaches that would otherwise have been heaped upon this commonwealth by the heroism of Sheriff Sherman Eley of Allen county, who endured a terrible beating rather than betray his trust and permit a crowd of rioters to put a prisoner to death without trial or chance for his life.

The public authorities and the decent citizens of Lima and Allen county owe it to themselves and to their community to run down and punish all of the leaders of the midnight mob and all other members of that gang who can be discovered and convicted. There is no other way to clear, as far as possible, the good name of the city and the county. There is no other means of preventing another and perhaps more deadly outbreak of mob spirit and mob crime.

Local Republicans are strong in their protest against the mob action. Law and order are above any man, mob or party. Hundreds have been turned to Eley merely because the lawless element opposes him. But we have looked in vain for a single line of protest against the riot, one single word of editorial commendation for the sheriff, in the local organ of that party. Above everything, the sacred ticket!

The United States census of manufactures shows an average of 7,134,160 wage earners employed in American mills and factories during the first seven months of 1914, up to opening of European war, as compared to 6,404,323 during same months in 1909. This is an increase of 729,837, or 11.4 per cent, and it took place under the Democratic tariff.

The paramount inequity, as Mr. Robins now sees it, is President Wilson's Mexican policy. Mr. Robins has only to harken back a couple of years to utterly refute himself.

Mr. Herrick, Mr. Durand and Mr. Tittman as campaign issues didn't last very long and even Henry Lane Wilson is beginning to peter out. Why not the tariff?

The two saddest conditions that the Republican party has to face—one that this country is at peace with the world and the other that prosperity is smiling upon the people of this land.

With Penrose, Root and Gallinger in charge in the senate, and Cannon and Mann in the house, it's a pretty crew the returning Progressives find themselves tied up with.

GOOD EVENING: Lima almost broke into a class with Newark and Springfield.

Electric Service Is Not Fully Appreciated Until
You Have Tried It

The man or the woman who has never experienced the convenience of the electric light or of the labor-saving appliances such as the electric iron or vacuum cleaner, naturally feels doubtful of their true value.

All that we may say serves just one purpose—it simply aims to make you interested enough to SEE and LEARN what Electric Service is ACTUALLY doing in homes about you.

It costs nothing to investigate. Many of your friends who had their houses wired recently would be glad to talk it over with you. Why not find out TODAY?

LIFE

Of a Delicate Instrument
IS SHORT ENOUGH WHEN HANDLED
BY EXPERTS.

It is much shorter when handled by amateurs.

That's the trouble with municipal ownership.

In a city-owned system the responsible positions are more apt to go to political appointees than to men chosen on merits.

Municipal ownership is a system of managing a public utility whereby the jobs are at the mercy of political leaders. Useless berths are created for faithful followers. Extra pay is attached to jobs which should be abolished. Men without experience are appointed to positions which belong to technical experts. That's why municipal ownership of telephones would not work in Lima. That's why it has never yet been tried in the United States.

A telephone system involves more than any one could imagine who had never seen the inside of an exchange. Delicate machinery worth its weight in gold, intricate networks of tiny wires, labyrinths of switches and connections, thousands of little details which appear too small to be important, but which are in reality the basis of the entire machinery—there is more to a telephone system than to any other device.

Such a china closet is no proper place for the political bull. How long would a modern exchange last with amateurs at the helm? How long would the financial department be able to keep ahead? How much would be lost on a venture of that nature in Lima? The entire value of the plant, which is nearly a million of dollars. What would be left after a year of political interference, mismanagement by unskilled workers, bleeding by leeches in useless jobs—what would Lima have to show for such an investment? A tangled heap of junk.

Everybody's business is nobody's business. Everybody's money is office-holders' money to spend. That's why municipal ownership won't work.

U. S. TO USE CLUB IN WAR FOR TRADE

Prepares Laws to Hit Allies
Interfering With American Commerce.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Retaliatory legislation striking at the commerce of the allies in support of diplomatic protests against interferences with American trade has been decided upon as a general policy of the government after extended conferences between state department officials and leaders in congress. This was stated officially today, with the explanation that provisions written into the shipping bill and the pending revenue bill were first steps in refusing to take American merchant the policy.

The government has reached the limit of its patience in reliance on direct diplomacy and has decided, after discussions between Secretary Lansing and members of congress, to empower the president to employ commercial retaliation. This course would have been taken some time ago, it was intimated, except that all plans of retaliation proposed were obviously illegal.

The amendment to the revenue bill adopted by the Senate would give the president discretionary power to prohibit the importation into this country of products which cannot be imported into foreign countries from the United States. This is aimed directly at the British embargo restricting the shipment of American tobacco, which is said to be an attempt by English interests to depress the price of the American product and then monopolize its sale.

The amendment to the shipping bill, which already has passed both houses, gives the secretary of the treasury discretionary power to refuse clearance papers to all ships refusing to take American merchan-

the policy.

It is believed in government circles the American munition trade with the allies, which might be stopped by act of congress, furnishes a sufficiently powerful weapon "for use as a last resort, to prevent the belligerents from pressing a commercial war."

Several Republicans Defeated for Second Terms at State Primary.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—Although serving their first terms, five republican state representatives were defeated for re-nomination at last month's primaries, according to information received by House Clerk John P. Maynard, of Lima. A. L. Stevens, of Cambridge, was defeated by T. V. Foster, of Kimballton. Harry R. Kessner, of Carroll, poet-prince, lost to Rev. John R. Gorrell, of Carroll county. Dr. L. F. Cain, in Noble county, defeated Representative W. E. Danford, of Caldwell, author of the anti-cigarette bill which failed to pass the last legislative session. Cain was a member of the house 10 years ago.

A. A. Giffin defeated David C. Morris, in Van Wert county. In Logan county, A. F. Niedig was defeated. Beginning next session, two representatives, instead of one, will represent this county. John P. Baker, of Zanesville, was defeated by Prof. Leon Graham, New Concord, Muskingum county.

Frank E. Whittemore, of Akron, and Frank H. Reighard, of Fulton county, who were majority floor leaders in the house and chairman of the house finance committee, respectively, will probably be republican candidates for speaker at the next session of the house. Both have been re-nominated. If re-elected, Representative John Cowan, of Putnam and C. J. Smith, of Butler counties, will serve their fourth term in the lower house as democrats. During the Cox administration, Cowan was chairman of the finance committee. Smith was a "whip."

Representative G. S. Crawford, of Graysville, democratic candidate for state senator from the district comprising Coshocton, Guernsey, Noble and Tuscarawas counties, is standing on an anti-Cox platform. When Cox was governor, Crawford, in the lower house, opposed administration measures. W. N. Miller, of Dresden, republican, and J. Henry Miller, Zanesville, democrat, are rival candidates for state representative.

NERVOUS, TIRED OUT, LIVER CLOGGED AND
POISONING NER-VOUS SYSTEM?

A Wineglassful of Tollo Water Will Start Your Liver and Quiet Your Nerves in Half an Hour.

Physicians from all over the United States send nervous, rundown patients to Dawson Springs, Kentucky—the home of Tollo Water. They have learned from experience that this water cleans out the liver and aids the whole system to regain normal health and energy.

Nervous, irritable people—those who wake up in the morning with "headaches" and "all tired out"—will find a Tollo Water liver bath a great help. It will make you feel in less than half an hour.

Too much rich, starch food clogs the minute ducts of the liver and the bile cannot flow freely into the bowels to clean out the waste matter as nature requires. This bile, seeking an outlet, backs up into the system, irritates the nerves, causes headaches, constipation, dizziness, indigestion and a general tired-out feeling.

Try a Tollo Water liver bath occasionally. Get a 15-cent bottle from your druggist and take about a third of a tumblerful in a glass of plain water before breakfast. In thirty minutes it will cleanse the bile that is clogged in the liver, flush the waste out of the bowels and make you feel fine.

WOMAN THROWS BABE TO DEATH IN WELL.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 1.—"He had to be drowned and I thought I was the one to do it."

This is the explanation Mrs. C. P. Skinner, wife of a farmer living near Lithonia, made to officers when they came to arrest her for killing her two year old son. The woman was declared insane. She carried her baby to an old well and threw it in, standing by and peering down until the little form ceased to struggle in the water. An older child told the neighbors who summoned the authorities.

KIND WORDS FOR WOMEN FROM WOMEN

HERE is an old Chinese proverb which says, "A kind word keeps warm for three winters." I wonder if there are many of us that could prove the falsity of the statement. It wouldn't be a poor idea if we would try it out, and see if there was any truth in it.

All of us are stings with kind words, and since kind words are but the expressions of kind thoughts, we practice too rigid an economy with kind thoughts.

"In the first place we are ready to condemn, to criticise, to judge. We fall in our understanding, and forget, good christians that we ought to be, the divine teaching of the golden rule.

Not that I love humanity less, but that I love women more, do I say that the biggest problem we women have to face, whether we gain our emancipation or not, is the problem of gossip, and unkind words. We are generally ready to say things that might compromise another of our own sex, if perchance she tood in the light of our social, or emotional, conquests. If we hear good of her from the lips of some of her friends, or some one who might like immediately tell what we know, which might not be so much to our rival's credit. So we defeat our own ends. Instead of hurting our rival, we hurt ourselves, by giving the other person the right of thinking us a gossip. And so we say, so we think, and kind words and kind thoughts become rarer and rarer, until they are so painful to us that we seldom go to the trouble of thinking and saying them.

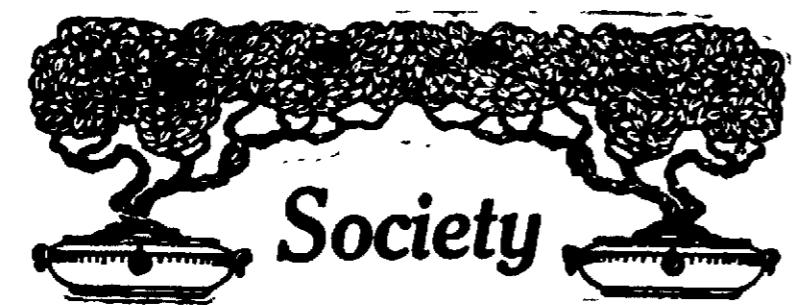

Perhaps we can't help our critical nature, perhaps that is part of our heritage, and yet heritage can be overthrown with a strong will and a sense of right. We have a reputation of being a faithless lot to our own sex, and if you will be real honest with yourselves you will see that we deserve the opinion. Man, in respect, has found the right path, for he tries to understand his fellow; sticks to him in case of trouble, never "gossips" about him, and above all is—loyal. Would a man betray a man to a woman? But do most women hesitate to betray their most women hesitate to betray their own point?

Of course, there are exceptions to all cases, and we find some women or some men who prove it. But we are speaking from a general standpoint, without singling out any cases for example. It's a really big question that we women have to face, that we will face and will conquer. We women of America may have a harder time to work our way out than the European women facing a problem, whose solution will change that it's a question of realization, whether it will come through such drastic measures as are facing the women of Europe, or from our own fair-mindedness and common sense.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the marriage of Miss Lulu Brower to Mr. Chester A. Hudson, of Detroit, was made yesterday to the many friends of the young couple. The wedding was a surprise, although it was the culmination of a romance begun when the bridegroom was employed in this city two years ago. The marriage occurred in Detroit, August 22, at the home of the Rev. Mr. Smith, the officiating minister.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Brower, living on a farm northeast of here. She is well known in Lima and has many friends here.

Mr. Hudson is as equally well known and during his residence in Lima was employed by the Old National Bank.

After their wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson will reside in Pontiac, Mich., where the bridegroom will be employed as cashier of the Wilson Foundry Machine Company.

Miss Mary Roberts entertained last evening at her home on West Spring street. Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening, at the conclusion of which a delectable lunch was served by the hostess. Among those present were: Misses Margaret Cooper, Katharine Young, Esther Kriete, Elizabeth Mouton, Dorothy Kahle, Janet White, Alice Beery, Rosemary Christen, Anna Bradley, Marian Cable, Doris Dale, Dorothy Frankel, Blake Robertson, Robert Robinson, Hollie Young, Charles Cheney, Donald Baker, Richard Gensel, James Backus, Harry Wright, Carl Young, Donald Cameron, Ethyres Malere, Sherman Maniere and John Moke.

Mrs. Mary Seibold entertained the members of the Rambler club with dinner at her home on Calumet avenue. The table was decorated with garden flowers, candles, and very pretty place cards, which were miniature baskets filled with flowers. Mrs. Henrietta Harper and Mrs. Jennie Miller were the only guests other than the club members. The next meeting of the club will be the last of September, with Mrs. S. A. Worrell as hostess.

Members of the club are Mrs. Oliver Sullivan, Miss Nettie Sullivan, Mrs. L. G. Lerch, Mrs. Russell Calkins, Mrs. David Roseheim, Mrs. John Sweeney, Mrs. F. A. Worrall, Mrs. Mabel Stoner, Mrs. Henry Blattner, Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. Mary Seibold and Mrs. John Kenyon.

Miss Lucile Gottfried was hostess yesterday afternoon of a party for Miss Elizabeth Clizbe, who announced her engagement to Charles A. Baker. A dainty color scheme was carried out with asters, and also in the lunch which was served at the close of the afternoon. Miss Lenore Gottfried, Mrs. Edward Hanmer, and Mrs. Roy Gottfried assisted the hostess in serving.

Miss Clizbe has been a popular teacher at the Whittier building, and it is with much regret on the part of her pupils and friends that she will give up this work. Her marriage will occur the latter part of September.

Members of the South Side Embroidery club were entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. B. Westlake, of Franklin avenue. Mrs. Jess Bannister won the prize of the contest which was played during the afternoon. Miss Theda Frisinger, who was a guest, was awarded the guest prize. Mrs. Bannister was elected president of the club for the coming year, and Mrs. C. E. Gerdean was elected secretary. Mrs. George Ralston will entertain the club at its next meeting, which will be held at her home next Tuesday.

Hints for the Housewife

When Vegetables Burn.

If a pot of vegetables dries out and is found to be burned on the bottom, lift it off the fire at once and set in a large pan of cold water, leaving about six minutes. Then turn the vegetables out into a clean pot. You will not detect the burned taste.

Preparing Vegetables.

When peeling onions, keep the heads under running water. The heads will not be scented or stained and the eyes will not be affected. Soak potatoes for half an hour in water in which a teaspoon of baking soda has been dissolved and the skins will not stain the hands.

Stuffed Roasted Green Peppers.

Cut off the tops of the peppers and remove the seeds. Make a forced meat of minced chicken and rice, seasoned with salt and onion juice and softened with melted butter. Fill the peppers with this arrangement, pack in salt and ice, and let stand several hours.

COUNTERFEIT BRASS CHECKS LEAD TO ARREST

OWENSBORO, Ky., Sept. 1.—Everybody knows the man who counterfeits coins of the United States stands in a fair way to spend a few years in a federal prison. But Charles E. and William Sullivan, brothers, did not see where the government would have any claim on them if they counterfeited brass checks used by the West Kentucky Coal company at its commissary. They issued some of the brass checks and sent them by mail to some friend who "cashed them" at the commissary. The counterfeiters were discovered and now the two brothers are facing federal court on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

MARRYING A BUTTERFLY
By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Ethel Recounts to Ralph the Story of Her Regeneration.

"Now, tell me all about it." Ralph sat in his big easy chair with his wife on his knee. He had wiped the supper dishes for her, because he could not bear to have her out of his sight.

"When I left home I was very angry at you and decided that I would go out to Mrs. Telison's and board for a while, until I had time to think what I should do to punish you." She leaned over and touched her lips to Ralph's forehead. He folded her so close in his arms that both forgot the history of the month of separation. Finally she began again.

"As I was saying when you interrupted me," she smiled so alluringly that there was danger of another interruption, "Mrs. Telison consented to board me, and I spent my time wandering about the fields or riding when the weather was good. But I was beginning to feel very restless when one day I went over to Mrs. Morton's—Nell's mother-in-law, you know." Ralph nodded. "It seems she had heard about me from Nell." The red began to creep up in the pretty face. "She is a woman who is always trying to wake people up to their opportunities; to the beat that is in them, and I surely was sound asleep. Rip Van Winkle was not in with me." Her laugh was good to hear. "I had gone in to her cheery living room to visit with her because I had nothing to do with myself, and she exploded such a bomb under me that I left in a towering rage in five minutes."

"What did she say to you?" asked Ralph, smiling up into the happy face.

"Oh, she said I was selfish; that I thought of nothing but my own comfort. She said I was a doll; that I had never thought in my life or I could not live the useless life I was living. I went off in high dudgeon and she called after me: 'Think of the truths I have told you; they will change your life.' That sentence stuck like a burr. I could not get it out of my head for days and finally

THE JOY OF MOTHERHOOD

Words of Encouragement to Childless Women.

Motherhood is woman's natural destiny, but many women are denied the happiness of children simply because of some curable derangement.

Among the many triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is its marvelous power to overcome such derangements, as evidenced by the following letter:

Worcester, Mass.—"I suffered from female ill, and was advised to have an operation, but a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and who has six children, told me to try it. It has helped me so much that I am now well and have a baby boy who is the picture of health, and I thank the Vegetable Compound for my restoration to health."

—Mrs. BENT GARVEY, 20 Hacker St., Worcester, Mass.

In many other homes, ones childless, there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

PRELIMINARIES FOR U.S. MEXICAN CONFAB COMPLETE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—All arrangements for the meetings of the American Mexican commissions to settle the points at issue between the two republics were completed today. The commissioners will meet Monday afternoon at the Biltmore hotel, New York, merely for the purpose of confirming the appointment of minor officials and clerks to the commissions, and arrange for the first of the regular series of meetings in Portsmouth, N. H.

The president's yacht, the Mayflower, will take the commissioners on board at New York late Monday night, and steam directly to Portsmouth. It practically is agreed that the first meeting at Portsmouth shall be Wednesday, September 6.

In accordance with the desire of the Carranza government the question of the withdrawal of American troops from Mexican territory will be the first discussed by the commissions.

Withdrawal of the so-called punitive expedition army officers pointed out will release a large number of militia units. They have been held on the border and were needed there originally only to protect the principal base of the expedition. Half of the number there now, officials declared, would have been ample protection for the border alone, and it is probable that withdrawal of the Pershing column will permit the return to state concentration camps of several thousand additional national guardmen.

After a satisfactory settlement of the question of withdrawing American troops has been reached, the commission will take up the question of protection of the American border against repetition of the bandit raids which cause the most recent crisis. In connection with this phase of the commissions' activities, an effort will be made to fix responsibility for the raid at Columbus, N. M., and other less important raids.

Protection of foreigners in Mexico, a permanent code of property rights of foreigners which will be enforced by the de facto government, a basis for duties on American goods sent into Mexico, and agreement on the method of holding municipal, state and national elections in order to secure the recognition of the United States for the president of Mexico eventually elected, will likewise come under discussion. A formal arrangement for the financial rehabilitation of Mexico will be included also in the deliberations of the commission. Means will be debated for raising the rate of exchange to its normal level, and one result, according to state department officials will be a tact backing of American bankers in a loan of at least $100,000,000 to the de facto government.

she is released. She not only scores a great success, but makes a fortune for the man who had befriended her. This masterpiece is what might be called a comedy-drama and is not only replete with thrill, but interspersed with fun.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN TOMORROW.

Tomorrow at the Royal the famous comedian, Charles Chaplin, will make his appearance in the second of the two-reel Mutual releases "The Fireman". For this corking comedy the services of an entire fire company were impressed, including their fire apparatus. Of course the film would not be complete without a real fire, so a two story frame dwelling was burned and it is here that Chaplin shows his versatility and quick grasp of opportunity to make comedies out of serious situations. His quick wit saved a straw stack belonging to a farmer from burning down as well as a battle. Do not fail to send the children to see this comedy treat—and be sure to go yourself. Fun is the best cure in the world for ailments, so follow the crowds.

AT DREAMLAND.

At Dreamland today Marguerite Clayton plays opposite E. H. Clavert in the three-reel Essanay story of the north woods "Beyond the Law". This is the story of the eternal triangle. One mining partner locks his partner in a cabin in a remote part of a forest to leave him to die in order that he might win the girl which they both loved. The thrilling manner in which the poor fellow was rescued as well as the manner of dealing justice in the north is vividly shown on the screen. A comedy adds to the spice of the performance.

THE ORPHEUM.

In Charles Sumner's graphic drama, "The Natural Law," which is to be seen at the Orpheum theater tomorrow, matinee and night, he introduces a character heretofore practically unknown to the American stage in Ruth Stanley, a rising artist. There have been many plays based upon the love of an artist for his model, but this is the first instance in a native drama where the artist is the girl and the model is the man in the case.

And yet there is nothing of effeminity about Mr. Sumner's model. He has avoided this danger by making him an athlete, and his posing for the artist is the result of his having been chosen as the American representative in the marathon at the Olympic games.

Studies both of artists and of musicians have been the scenes of many stage romances, and the playgoer will readily recall such forgotten stories as "Trilby," "A Modern Lady Godiva," "La Boheme," "The Common Law," "The Fallen Idol" and How to Give Good Advice.

The best way to give good advice is to set a good example. When others see how quickly you get over your cold by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy they are likely to follow your example. This remedy has been in use for many years and enjoys an excellent reputation. Obtainable everywhere.

THE FAUROT'S PICTURES.

Woman, of course, is "The Eternal Question", now being presented at the Faurot with Mme. Olga Petrova is the leading role. It is not a study of inherited traits and environment, as might be anticipated, but a real flesh and blood drama with quite a sensational plot and many scenes that are intensely thrilling. The picture is based on a novel idea: as the result of a discussion between three club men, a wagger is placed on the possibility of taking an ignorant woman from the streets and in three months transforming her into a lady. Bianca, portrayed by Mme. Petrova, consents to the strange agreement, and donning the costume of an itinerant musician, becomes a haughty gentlewoman who is introduced to society as a Russian countess. The production possessed a variety of locations, the plot profits by a number of surprises and the acting is of even merit, with Mahlon Hamilton, Arthur Hoops, Warren Gland, Henry Leone and Evelyn Dumo in support of the always impressive Mme. Petrova. The feature is accompanied by a clever comedy, "Preparedness", with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew providing their usual number of laughs, and new Paramount Pictographs, illustrating the making of ice, mosaics, and with other interesting subjects. Last times tonight.

AT THE ROYAL.

At the Royal today will appear the famous star, Florence Turner, in the five-reel Mutual masterpiece entitled "Doorsteps", adapted from the famous play of that name. As a fallen idol of the stage, she cleverly wins an interview with a prominent theatrical manager and using her knowledge of the underworld, steals his watch to show him that she can qualify for the role of a pickpocket in a big drama. She is arrested as a genuine thief but through the intervention of the author of the play,

"Gold." But in all of these it is the girl student or model who is the recipient of the artist's or musician's admiration, and the lure of physical attraction is quickened by the woman's Adonis-like attributes.

It is a striking and highly interesting variation of the old theme.

In Mr. Sumner's play, however, he goes Bernard Shaw one better, and makes the woman the purser, lured by man's Adonis-like attributes.

It is a striking and highly interesting variation of the old theme.

Military Features Of The Buffalo Bill Show Are Incentives To Loyalty

Artillery in Action—A Scene in the Buffalo Bill, 101 Ranch Military Preparedness Pageant, September 14.

Owing to the extreme military character of the "Preparedness" spectacle which will be the big feature of the Buffalo Bill (himself)—101 Ranch shows when they exhibit in Lima, Thursday, September 14, a report has gained currency that the display is an open and avowed incentive to war. That this is far from the truth is declared by Col. Wm. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), who is in the saddle again this year and takes a prominent part in the exhilarating spectacle.

"The idea of the spectacle, 'Preparedness,'" Col. Cody told a New York newspaper writer, "is not to stir up warlike feelings among our American people or to glorify war as to compel aggression against any other nation. While the panoply and picturesqueness of the military life is shown, and a successful effort has been made to arouse enthusiasm by the realism of the display, the main purpose, apart from the effort to give the American people a splendid picture of our army and what it may become, is to create patriotism and to open the eyes of the American people to the urgent need and necessity for preparedness against a possible foe. The spectacle does not preach 'aggression,' but does Boston-Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1.—Pittsburgh won the final game of the series yesterday from Boston by a score of 3 to 2. The Pirates scored two runs in the third inning on hits by Mamsaux, Warner and Carey and Fitzpatrick's error and another in the fourth on Farmer's triple and Schmidt's sacrifice fly. Magee's single, Bigbee's error and Konetchy's sacrifice fly gave the visitors a tally in the seventh and another run was made in the next inning on a base on balls, an error and Chappelle's hit. The game was called at the end of the first half of the ninth inning to permit Boston to catch a train.

GIANT SEAPLANE TRIED.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—A giant seaplane, designed by naval constructors, was given try-out today in a flight over the Potomac. Navy officials were pleased at the showing.

The craft, a biplane with a sixty-foot wing spread, has a dead load capacity of nearly 2,000 pounds.

COLUMBUS—ARMED with cowbells, horns, rattles and banners with humorous inscriptions, fellow clerks marched Miss Nabel Parnell, of Dayton, through the aisles at the offices of the state industrial commission. Miss Parnell, who gave up her position today as a stenographer for the commission, will be married on September 12 at the home of an aunt in front of J. Higgins, assistant director of finance at Toledo. Higgins formerly was auditor of the state industrial commission.

Incidentally, there is a graphic reproduction of many scenes from the life of the old West, when Uncle Sam's cavalry was principally com-

DEMAND IS BRISK
ON WALL ST MART

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—There was a brisk demand for stocks with some issues selling at new high records at the opening of the stock exchange today, but after the first few minutes a reaction started in which a good part of the initial gains were lost. Most interest was attracted to the trading in steel, which sold on the regular dividend and extra dividend of 2 1/4% at 96 1/2, equal to 99 1/2, just 97 1/2 at the close yesterday. Inspiration advanced 1 1/2 to 59, a new high record, then reacted to 57 1/2. Union Pacific opened ex dividend of 3 per cent at 139 1/2, a net gain of 1 1/2, but later reacted to 138 1/2. New York Central opened up one point at 104, followed by a reaction to 103 1/2. Reading, after advancing 5 1/2 to 106 1/2, reacted to 105 1/2. Kelly Springfield gained 1 1/2 to 81, again making a new high mark. Marine preferred also hit its high record, selling at 105 1/2. The common opened 5 1/2 higher at 43 1/2, then reacted to 42 1/2.

Price movements were irregular all through the first hour. Nearly everything on the list was in supply at the high levels established in the first 15 minutes. Marine preferred was an exception to the reactionary movement. It advanced to a new high record of 105 1/2. American Can sold off to 60 1/2 and later made an upturn to 62 1/2. Steel common, after reacting to 96 1/2, rallied to 96 3/4.

CONGRESS RECORD HAS 321 PAID SUBS.; COST IS $600,000

Printing Office Gets Copy at Midnight; Paper Mailed at 6 A. M.

Speeches Often Revised by Members After They Are in Type.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 1.—Among many other activities, Uncle Sam is the most prolific publisher in the world—an achievement which has been thrust upon him by necessity rather than built up by ambitious zeal. Every day a continuous flood of copy pours into his printing office from all the government departments, covering every imaginable subject from the gross consistency of oleomargarine to the relative heat of stars. From the capitol an incessant stream of bills—small bills for the relief of John Smith and Harry Jones, large bills for army appropriations and shipping boards; and interspersed with these are huge stacks of committee hearings requiring immediate printing. As if this were not enough to keep four thousand people busy, at midnight is rushed in the copy for the daily organ of congress—the Congressional Record.

It is the Record, more than anything else, which best illustrates the marvellous efficiency of Uncle Sam's printing business. Although the copy is never received until 12 o'clock and then is often held up for correction, the Record must be off the press and at the Union Station to catch the mail at 6 a. m. Fortunately, the Union Station is only a block away and is connected with the printing office by an underground passage. Through this electric conveyors shoot the still warm copies of the Record in mail bags from one building to another, thus having the usual delay of local transportation. In addition to this, every possible time-saving factory device is employed to insure a speed maximum. The fastest presses are used and electric truck carry the Record in its various protestes of manufacture from one part of the building to another. By this system, combined with the expert skill of its operatives, the printing office turns out the 32,000 copies of the Congressional Record every morning, ranging from 12 to 128 pages, on time every morning.

Of these 32,000 copies each senator receives $7 and each representative $5. There is a list of 321 paid subscribers to which it must be mailed daily, who pay for it by the session—$8 for a long session and $4 per short session. This slim subscription list is largely made up of business men throughout the country who are interested in certain legislation. Besides these two sources of distribution, there is the Congressional Record office in Statuary Hall at the Capitol where it is sold to individuals at so much per page, but these sales are usually slight unless some particularly interesting speech or debate is recorded, and do not yield any profit. It costs the government about $400,000 a year to publish this newspaper, which makes no provision for the reporters' fees, charged up to the expenses of congress.

The congressional reporters are hired by contract by Uncle Sam, seven being detailed to each house. Any day the visitor to the capitol may behold these men, their bodies tense, their pens flying as they take down in shorthand the national proceedings. Each man works until he gets tired, and then he is relieved by the next in line, and so on. As soon as he is finished, he hurries to his office, which is in the capitol, and proceeds to make dictaphone records of his notes, from which they are written out by a corps of typists. The reporter then reads the proof of the final copy and, if necessary, sends it to the office of some member of congress who desires to make a few corrections in his remarks. At half-past 11 the last page of the day's proceedings is turned over to the messengers of the printing office and it is delivered into the hands of the copy editor in that building. While no part of the text is changed or cut out after it leaves the capitol, unless specially requested the government has its own style of punctuation and spelling to which each document and bulletin and report must conform. From the hands of this copy editor, then, the Record goes directly to the linotype machines, of which there are 64, where it is set into type by as many operators, several of whom are women. From this point on it receives much the same treatment as any other newspaper. A matrix is made and from this a plate is cast, which is carried by truck to the press room. Here the giant steel presses fold, cut and deliver on the average of eight signatures, or 64 pages of the entire edition an hour. Again on an electric truck the sheets are rushed to the bindery where the pages are clamped together, and then it is but a few minutes before they are shooting over to the station.

In a country where the national prerogative of free speech is considered one of the most enviable assets, the Congressional Record has dignified and important political status. Ever since 1789, when the United States government was still looked upon as an experiment, a record has been kept of the daily sessions of congress, giving in detail each separate debate and speech. This record was known as the Annals of Congress until the name was changed to the Register of Debates. From that it developed into the Congressional Globe and finally became the Congressional Record, which seems likely to remain its permanent cognomen. Bound volumes of these old papers are on file in the government printing office and are occasionally sold to individuals at the price of $1.50 per volume.

Although not attracting either the circulation or the popular interest of the regular newspaper daily, needless to say, the Record is the joy and pride of congress. Here the members behold their eloquence reproduced on paper, and note with satisfaction the clever replies or scathing rebukes they administered throughout the course of debate to their colleagues. Moreover, the member who can not make his house vote an appropriation for a federal site in his home town can at least have his good intentions printed in the Record and sent around to his constituents. The fact that speeches are often corrected and revised many times by their authors before they appear in the Record is a fact not generally known and has no influence on the folks back home. Often whole speeches are inserted which were never delivered on the floor under the convenient privilege of "leave to extend;" and it is a practice not unknown for a member to garnish his remarks and addresses with neat little brackets enclosing the words "loud applause" or "laughter." Of course, in the majority of cases these insertions are made by the reporters themselves.

DESIRE TO ISSUE STOCK

per cent trust notes. Proceeds are to be used in paying for extensions and improvements made during the past year and yet to be made on its properties at Coshocton, and other towns in Coshocton, Guernsey and Tuscarawas counties.
